

October 28

Simon and Jude apostles

Today the Western churches commemorate Simon and Jude, apostles of the Lord. Simon, called the Zealot, and Jude son of James, also called Thaddaeus

Simon and Jude apostles

Today the Western churches commemorate Simon and Jude, apostles of the Lord.

Simon, called the Zealot, and Jude son of James, also called Thaddaeus, are named last in the lists of the apostles. Similar to the workers hired at the eleventh hour, they still fulfilled their mission, giving witness to the Gospel until they were martyred.

As often happens in the biblical story of salvation history, God chooses to reveal himself to those who seem least important and most marginal. According to John's Gospel, it is to Jude that Jesus reveals the possibility of God's coming to dwell in the hearts of those who make room for his love.

The same call to love is addressed to Simon, who, before meeting Jesus, had belonged to a Jewish group whose members resorted to violence as a way of showing their zeal for God and the Law.

According to an apocryphal text, Jude was crucified in Persia after evangelizing Egypt and Mauritania. Simon is also said to have died in Persia after preaching in Samaria, Syria, Mesopotamia, and India.

PRAYER

Lord our God,
in the community of the apostles called together by Jesus
you showed us the seeds of your holy Church:
grant that we may live in communion with the apostles,
and that through the prayer of Simon and Jude
we may become a true image of the first apostolic community gathered around Jesus Christ, our only Lord.

BIBLICAL READINGS

Eph 2:19-22; Lk 6:12-16

THE CHURCHES REMEMBER...

ANGLICANS:

Simon and Jude, apostles

WESTERN CATHOLICS:

Simon and Jude, apostles (Roman and Ambrosian calendars)

The brothers Vincent, Sabina and Christeta of Avila (4th cent.?), martyrs (Spanish-Mozarabic calendar)

COPTS AND ETHIOPIANS (18 bābah/teqemt):

Theophilus (d. 412), 23th patriarch of Alexandria (Coptic Orthodox Church)

Eracla (d. ca. 248), patriarch of Alexandria (Coptic Catholic Church)

LUTHERANS:

Simon and Jude, apostles

MARONITES:

Telesphorus (3rd cent.), pope

ORTHODOX CHRISTIANS AND GREEK CATHOLICS:

Terence and Neonilla (d. ca. 250), martyrs

Stephen the Sabbaite (d. 794), hymn writer

EAST SYRIAN ORTHODOX:

Simon and Jude, apostles (Malabar Church)

OLD CATHOLICS:

Simon and Jude Thaddeus, apostles